Range of the longleaf pine. Today only four percent of the longleaf pine forests that originally grew in the Coastal Plain of North America remain.